ZELAYA MATTERS LAID ON TABLE FORTIME BEING

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS POSTPONES ACTION.

ISSUE NOTE OF DEFIANCE

Insurgent Congressmen Are Mad Over Decision to Withhold Patronage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—Not seeing the necessity of demanding the immediate arrest and punishment of Zelaya, the house committee on foreign affairs today laid aside various measures introduced providing for such action.

Issues Defiance.
In an interview today, Representative Morris of Nebraska charged the president with neglecting to keep the committee on foreign affairs in the loop of Zelaya's activities, and declared that they would not be intimidated into silence by any combination between the president and speaker.

MISSOURI'S LEADING DEMOCRATS CONVE

"Show Me" Politicians Meet To Formulate Plans For Closer State Organization.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6.—Democratic leaders of Missouri, office-holders, editors and others who work with brain and pen the year round to keep the party in good fighting shape, are gathering in Kansas City for the biggest pow-wow they have held in many a day. Tomorrow there will be a meeting of the full state committee, followed on Saturday by a general conference under the auspices of the Missouri Democratic Editorial association. The gathering will wind up Saturday night with a "Jackson Day" banquet at which Democratic leaders of national prominence will be the speakers.

"Missouri Democratic Again in 1912" is to be the slogan of the conference. It has been unanimously agreed that candidates shall not be considered, but that the entire time of the conference shall be devoted to a discussion of issues and principles and the consideration of plans for a closer organization in preparation for the next state campaign. Senator Warriner is expected to take part in the conference and also the three men who are regarded as rival candidates for his seat in the senate, which will be filled by the next legislature. The three candidates are ex-Governor Joseph W. Folk, David R. Francis of St. Louis and James A. Reed, former mayor of Kansas City. In certain quarters considerable significance is attached to the fact that William J. Bryan was not invited to speak at the banquet to be given Saturday night, while, on the other hand, Norman J. Mack of Buffalo, who is said to have declared himself in opposition to Mr. Bryan's leadership of the Democratic party, will be the guest of honor and chief speaker at the banquet.

CAPTURED ROBBERS AFTER HARD FIGHT

Try to Rob Small Bank—One Is Wounded; Rest Are Captured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Jan. 6.—Three heavily armed men held up a private bank in the Green Point section of Williamsburg today and attempted to rob it. They were resisted and one robber was shot. After a fight the wounded man's companions were captured with him.

Later Story.
New York, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Four men entered the bank at Green Point and attempted to rob it. In the pistol fight Samuel Korin, a clerk, was probably fatally wounded. As the robbers fled the crowd engaged them in battle. Two escaped but the other two were captured.

GAS EXPLOSION IS CAUSE OF TRAGEDY

Two Died and Young Girl Will Probably Die from Burns.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Lyons, Kan., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Walter Ellis and daughter were burned to death and a baby perhaps, fatally burned in a fire that destroyed the Ellis home here today. The blaze was caused by a gas explosion.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HOLDS LARGE MEETING IN JACKSON

Many Prominent Visitors Present At Opening Session Of Mississippi Organization.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Jackson, Miss., Jan. 6.—A number of prominent visitors are in the city for the annual meeting of the Mississippi Historical Society, which holds its opening session in the hall of the house of representatives this evening. The proceedings will continue over tomorrow. Among those on the program for addresses and papers are Dr. Franklin L. Riley of the University of Mississippi, Prof. G. Branson of Mississippi College, Miss Mary B. Jenkins of Natchez, Mrs. Dunbar of Jackson, Judge H. C. Beckett of West Point, Hon. R. E. Williams of Meridian, William Beer of New Orleans, and Prof. I. B. Nichols of the A. and N. College of Texas.

ALLEN EXPLODES IN THE FEDERAL COURT

Confessed Bank Wrecker Again Asserts He Is Not As Guilty Claimed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Phil Allen, Jr., the bank wrecker, exploded again in the federal court today, declaring that he was being charged with a multitude of crimes of which he was not guilty; that he had made of himself a criminal to shield his friends, and that they were now making him out a still greater criminal to shield themselves.

CITY IS VICTOR IN ANTIGO WATER CASE

Case of Antigo Water Co. Against Municipality Decided Adversely For Plaintiff.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Wisconsin, Jan. 6.—The case of the Antigo Water company against the city of Antigo, a suit for water rental, was decided in favor of the city, the amount involved being $2,832.50. Other similar cases are pending. It is understood the case will be appealed to the superior court.

HAVE MEAGRE CLUE OF MISSING CHILD

Five Thousand Dollars Is Sum Fixed by Her Abductors.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 7.—After weeks of suspense and despair, word has at last been received which may indicate that little Alma Kellner, daughter of the wealthy brewer of Louisville, is safe. The hope came in the form of a demand for $5,000.

LITTLE ALMA KELLNER, WHO DISAPPEARED DECEMBER 8.

ransom. Immediately the uncle of the girl, Frank Fehr, left for Chicago, and it is fully expected he will pay the money and return with the child. The case has baffled the police of Chicago and Pittsburgh and so far no definite information has been found.

STATE USES MONEY FOR USELESS BOOKS

Contracts for About 40,000 Pounds of Books Which Are Sacrificed at End of Each Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon there was placed on sale in the basement of the capitol building approximately 40,000 pounds of old books, all stacked beyond the possibility of being sold for anything but junk. It was expected that a Madison junk-dealer would secure them for a nominal sum.

This sale, which is "pulled off" about once a year, constitutes a concrete demonstration of a portion of the amount of the state's money that annually goes to waste in superfluous printing. The state rarely receives more than one-half cent a pound, which is less than one-tenth of the cost of the bare book paper to the printer—to say nothing of the cost of composition, press work and binding.

The books sold today consisted principally of annual reports of all kinds—agricultural, horticultural, insurance, educational, and legislative journals, session laws, printed bills and bulletins of all kinds and sizes. Many of the volumes were beautifully bound in leather. The state usually offers the session laws and legislative journals at 25 to 50 cents each. Last year something like 100,000 pounds of similar books was sold at more than a "sacrifice."

PROPOSED TO CHANGE METHOD IN USE FOR COMMISSION SCHEME

League Of Virginia Municipalities Urge Adoption Of New Form Of City Government.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Richmond, Va., Jan. 6.—In pursuance of a movement launched last fall by the League of Virginia Municipalities, delegates representing the commercial organization of the chief cities of the state met at the Hotel Jefferson in this city today to consider certain suggested reforms in methods of municipal government. The conference will submit its report to a meeting to be held here tomorrow, which will be attended by the mayors and other local representatives of Virginia cities. It is anticipated that the report may recommend the general adoption by the cities of Virginia of the Galveston or Des Moines plan of government by commission, with certain modifications.

NEGRO TO BE TRIED FOR ARTIST'S DEATH

Helped Murder W. F. Schulz—Turned State's Evidence To Mitigate His Punishment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Alexandria, Va., Jan. 6.—Henry Smith, the negro who turned State's evidence in the Schulz murder case, was placed on trial today in the corporation court. It is expected that not more than two days will be required to dispose of the case. In the event that Smith is found guilty of murder in the first degree he is expected to be sentenced to life imprisonment. In view of Smith's assistance in bringing about the conviction of Richard Pines, Calvin Johnson and Eugene Dorsey.

Walter F. Schulz, the victim of the murder, was a Chicago artist. In March, 1908, he came to Washington to attend the presidential inauguration. Four days later his mutilated body was found on the sidewalk of Alexandria. His pockets had been filled, giving evidence that robbery had furnished the motive for the murder. A few days after the discovery of the body the four negroes, Pines, Johnson, Dorsey and Smith, were arrested by the police on suspicion. On cross-examination Smith confessed to his participation in the crime. According to his statements Schulz was found by three of the negroes in an intoxicated condition on the street. One of them had thrown his overcoat over the artist's head to still his cries and he was then led to a field close by and beaten to death. Smith came upon the trio while they were beating Schulz and upon inquiring the cause of the disturbance he was forced at the point of a pistol to join in the crime. Upon the evidence of Smith his three companions were convicted and are now awaiting death in the electric chair in the State prison at Richmond.

NEW BANK AT FOOTVILLE HAS RECEIVED CHARTER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 5.—Commissioner of Banking M. C. Bergh has issued a charter authorizing the Footville State Bank of Footville, Rock county, capital $20,000. S. W. Lacey is president of the new institution, M. H. Fish, cashier.

WIFE MURDERER TO EXPIATE HIS CRIME ON THE GALLOWS

George Burge Cut His Wife's Throat Last Summer and Will Be Hanged Tomorrow.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 6.—The first of the year's hangings in Georgia is scheduled to take place in this city tomorrow. The condemned man is George Burge, who was convicted last summer of murdering his wife, from whom he was separated, by cutting her throat with a razor.

WOOL GROWERS OPEN SESSIONS IN OGDEN

American Sheep Owners Discuss Questions and Problems Of Mutual Interest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Ogden, Utah, Jan. 6.—The annual convention of the National association of Wool Growers, which opened its sessions in Ogden today, is the largest and most representative gathering in the history of the association. More than one thousand delegates and visitors are here from all parts of the country, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, California, Arizona and New Mexico are all represented by good sized delegations and among the delegates are many men of prominence. The opening session today was presided over by President Fred W. Gooding and was devoted to the exchange of greetings, the opening addresses and the appointment of the usual committees. The sessions will continue through the remainder of the week. In conjunction with the meeting here is being held the Mid-Winter Sheep Show.

The annual report of Secretary George S. Walter of Cheyenne shows that the past year was a busy one for the association and that much important work was accomplished. At the present convention plans are to be laid for continuing the work of the association and broadening the scope of its influence. The tariff and the wool warehouse movement are the chief subjects scheduled for discussion. The convention will also consider the range question, the administration of the forest reserves, the 28-hour stock shipping law, predatory wild animal pests, and a number of other matters of interest and importance to the wool growers. It has been arranged for speakers of national prominence to address one of the night sessions of the convention.

BLACK HAND CRIME FOUND IN CHICAGO

Italian Merchant Murdered by Three Men In His Store.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Jan. 6.—Falling to comply with the "Blackhand" demand for five thousand dollars, R. Shuele, aged sixty, an Italian merchant, was shot and instantly killed by three men this morning while asleep in the rear of his store. His assailants escaped and no arrests as yet have been made.

NO SETTLEMENT IN SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE

Efforts to Secure An Adjustment Of Railway Troubles Fruitless.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—Efforts to secure an adjustment of the strike of the switchmen on the railroads of the northwest has been abandoned. Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce commission, and Commissioner of Labor Neil, the mediators under the Erdman law, had a final conference with H. D. Herman. It was determined nothing further could be done to effect any settlement.

WAUSAU WOMAN DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Wausau, Wis., Jan. 6.—Death overtook Mrs. Mary Widmer, wife of Chas. Widmer of Ayer, Wis., last evening while she was on her way to this city to St. Mary's hospital for a surgical operation for intestinal trouble.

FOUNDER OF PATRIOTIC ORDERS DIED IN NEW YORK TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, 62nd year, founder of the Daughters of the Revolution and United States Daughters of 1812, is dead.

JACKMAN COMPELLED ALLEN TO DISGORGE

Former Local Attorney Unearthed Large Quantity of Bank Wrecker's Securities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Through the energetic work of Attorney Ralph W. Jackman, formerly of Janesville, it seems possible that creditors of Phil Allen will get nearly all they were "in for" with the wrecker of the First National bank of Mineral Point. Mr. Jackman has succeeded not only in digging up vast holdings of securities into which Allen invested money, but he has induced Allen, after that individual was under sentence to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to tell in detail all about the investments and advise which were of value and which were worthless. Many of the investments were made, as Allen testified, "because they were prospects" and while some of them turned out disastrously, many others are in prosperous condition and will be found valuable. Mr. Jackman is attorney for the receiver for Allen in his bankruptcy proceeding, the receiver being the Central Wisconsin Trust company of Madison.

RUSSIAN CZARINA IS MOST UNHAPPY ROYAL PERSONAGE

Regarded As Interloper By Subjects, In Continual Fear For Her Life, Czarina May Lose Her Mind.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, Jan. 6.—Despatches from St. Petersburg tell of the elaborate arrangements made for the winter social season in the Russian capital, which, the correspondents state, is destined to be the most brilliant since the present Czar came to the throne. Beginning with an imperial reception at the Winter Palace tonight, there are to follow in rapid succession a series of state dinners, amateur theatricals and other social festivities. The purpose of these entertainments, it is said, is to disprove the statements made abroad that the Czarina has become mentally afflicted.

Despite the official denials, it is learned from an authoritative source that the Czarina, who is closely related to the English royal family—she is a niece of King Edward, is seriously ill, both mentally and physically. Her present condition is such, in fact, that her recovery is regarded as difficult, if not impossible. The Czarina, as is well known, has never been popular in Russia. From the very day of her arrival there, indeed, she has been looked on as an intruder—one who has neither part nor lot in the land. And of late years the feeling against her has become much more intense. Surrounded by enemies, she has for years been the unhappiest royal personage in Europe.

Though she has been a devoted wife, her domestic life all through has been one of great sorrow. The Czar, hounded for a long time as each of the many daughters was born, the gloom increased, till melancholy had marked her for its own. Even when the long-wished-for heir arrived, the joy was short-lived. Attempts to kidnap the Czarovitch were narrowly frustrated, and the terror of violent death at any moment for herself and family broke down what little fortitude remained.

The Czarina received a great shock when the Grand Duke Sergius was assassinated at Moscow. For weeks afterward she could not sleep without sobs. Although she compelled herself to attend the funeral of her husband's uncle, the Grand Duke Alexis, her terror of bombs was so great that afterwards fears were entertained as to her reason. When she travelled to the Crimea with her family, making her first journey through Russia in seven years, her one thought was of revolutionaries, and practically during the whole of the time she had the little Czarovitch clamped to her breast.

Every political disturbance in Europe has increased the depression, and the recent tour to France and England, where she had passed so many happy days in her girlhood, was delayed so long, it is believed to accomplish all that was hoped for in the way of restoring shattered nerves.

HAVE ADJOURNED TO AWAIT ANY REPORTS

Both Houses of the Illinois Legislature Take No Action on Primary Bill.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—Both houses of the legislature held, perfunctory sessions this morning and adjourned until Tuesday without considering the primary election legislation. Senator Hay submitted to the senate a favorable report from the deep waterway committee on the Schmidt-Deneen waterway bill providing for immediate waterway work by Illinois without awaiting for congressional cooperation measure and it was promptly advanced to its second reading.

EDEN, S. DRAPER TAKES OATH AS GOVERNOR OF BAY STATE

Begin Second Term As Chief Executive Of Massachusetts—Delivers Inaugural Address.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—At noon today Ellen S. Draper was inaugurated for the second time, Governor of the State of Massachusetts. The oath of office was administered to him in the hall of the house of representatives in the presence of both branches of the legislature and other high officials and officers of the State. Governor Draper delivered his inaugural address.

FEW DESIRE TO OPPOSE LENROOT

NONE SEEKING TO OUST CONGRESSMAN FROM SEAT.

LEADERS STILL HOPEFUL

Problem Of National Party Leaders In Eleventh District Is Hard One, But They Expect To Find Right Man Yet.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Even now, with all the discouragements which they have suffered in trying to find a candidate in the eleventh congressional district of Wisconsin who is willing to contest honors for the republican nomination with Congressman Irvine L. Lenroot, the leaders of the national organization have not yet given up hope of finding some one who will make the run. It is understood that during the holiday recess of congress several of the old line republicans in the eleventh district have been called into St. Paul and that while in that city they were interviewed at length as to whether it would not be possible to bring out some candidate in the district who would be willing to make a fight against Mr. Lenroot. In fact, it is said that national leaders suggested several names and wanted the men whom they interviewed to go to the men mentioned and make an appeal to them to enter the field.

One of the men whom the representatives of the national leaders thought might be gotten into the field was State Senator George H. Hudnall, but the Superior men who were at St. Paul said they were certain that under no circumstances could Hudnall be induced to make the run and that it would be but a waste of time to try to get him out as a candidate. It was even suggested that an attempt be made to get former Congressman John J. Jenkins to make the run, but friends of Mr. Jenkins who were among those who talked the situation over in St. Paul said that although they were assured the former congressman would do all in his power to aid a movement for the unseating of the man who succeeded him in congress, they were very certain that he would not consent to be a candidate against Congressman Lenroot for the republican nomination. It may be, however, that even yet an effort will be made to get Mr. Jenkins out as a candidate because of the inability of the national leaders to find anybody else who will under any circumstances make the contest against Mr. Lenroot. It is doubtful, however, if any amount of pressure from Washington could induce Mr. Jenkins to again try to enter political life.

Jenkins Is Not Anxious.
It is true that Mr. Jenkins felt very deeply his defeat by Mr. Lenroot for the republican nomination in the primary election of 1908 and also that he enjoyed the work of a congressman in Washington. The former congressman, however, knows how difficult a canvass would be against Mr. Lenroot in the coming primary election campaign and does not care enough about the honor of being congressman to make the fight which would be demanded.

There is no question that one of the reasons why the republican national leaders are so anxious that Mr. Lenroot shall not return to congress from the eleventh district is because of his close relations to Senator La Follette. Both personally and politically, Congressman Lenroot and Senator La Follette are associates and the national republican leaders, aware of this fact, consider that they could strike no blow which would be more keenly felt by the senator than to prevent the re-nomination of Congressman Lenroot. As has been said before, however, the republican national leaders do not understand how very difficult a task they have undertaken in this light and in to them through the difficulty which they are experiencing in finding any one who has congressional ambitions to lead him to enter the eleventh district congressional race.

Support Morse in Tenth.
It can be said that in the Tenth district the La Follette people have resolved to give their support to Congressman Elmer A. Morse for a re-nomination. Mr. Morse has been a congressional member with progressive tendencies, and although perhaps he has not gone so far as some of his colleagues in support of the progressive movement there has been little in the record of the Tenth district man which the La Follette people feel is subject to criticism. It can be said also that the Tenth district congressman may need all the support which the La Follette leaders can give him in the primary election contest, as it is understood that plans are on foot for a very active campaign to prevent the re-nomination of Congressman Morse. Several conferences have been held in the district to find a man on whom the opposition to Congressman Morse can center and it is now generally understood that the opponents of the congressman will unite on Assemblyman Hambrecht for the contest.

DR. COOK SHORN OF ALL LATEST HONORS

Arctic Club of Brooklyn the Latest Organization to Drop Scientist.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Jan. 6.—The Arctic Club of America, founded by Dr. Cook and his supporters in the North Pole controversy, through its board of directors has dropped the name of explorer from its roll of membership. Following the explorer's dismissal from the council of directors, this strips from the explorer almost the last vestige of scientific honors, only the degree of "doctor of philosophy," conferred by the University of Copenhagen, remaining.

Perhaps it would not be out of place for a layman, not a lawyer, but a mechanic, not even a politician, but a taxpayer, to write a few lines on this question of government by commission. One lawyer writes that the law is all wrong and then proceeds to demonstrate his statement by pleading out laws. The next one says the law is all right and then writes on the very points that his opponent tore to pieces and places much significance in the points to prove that the other fellow is all wrong.
Then one man who opposes the law writes that he is opposed to the law because they do not want the taxes increased, because there are enough vacant buildings in Janesville at present, intimating that the adoption of the commission form of government would drive people out of business and they would move away from Janesville. Let us take up these two arguments separately.
Would the taxes be increased? The opponent of the law makes the plain statement that they would, but does not show how they would be increased in any way. In fact, he ignores the great truth of the law, the great benefit of the proposed change THAT A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF EXPENDITURE MEANS A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF GOODS BOUGHT, OR IMPROVEMENTS MADE. He does not want to call attention to the present waste in handling the city's monies. He ignores the fact that our streets are in a terrible condition, although thousands of dollars are expended annually in their repair, because of the luxury of the system that manages the street affairs.
It is safe to say that taxes will not be increased any more under the commission form than they are now when aldermen manage to pass through the council orders for improvement of streets, laying of sewers, laying of water mains, buying of new fire hose, from a favored company, and giving away of valuable franchises to please some personal end.
The commission would be composed of three men, elected by the people, not by ward "heelers." It would cut the ward lines as far as the election of the officers of the municipal government goes, not as to justice or supervisors. It means that the whole city has the right to name the men who are to make its laws instead of a few men in each ward selecting their own personal and special representative. It means that special interests are not to control the council to pass what measures they wish at star-chamber sessions, but that you and I, taxpayer and small property owners, have a voice in the government.
Now where will the vacant houses and stores come in? Will those special interests that are so anxious to defeat the law because they see it means the end of the star-chamber sessions, the "holding the door" consultations, close their power plants, stop their street cars, or even lock the side door of the saloons? It is safe to say "no." The power plants are run for a profit. The street car line is run now for the Lord knows what purpose, but when the eastern capitalists assume control after they have frozen out the local stockholders, as a funder to the Rockford Interurban.
No danger of those interests doing anything to decrease their dividends. No danger of the Water company shutting off its supply of water; no fear of the Gas company putting water in its gas so that people cannot see to read or work by, just because the commission form of government wins out. It is all "popycock" to talk of vacant houses and the very men who talk it are men who would want to move out of the state several years ago when a certain politician gained control of the state affairs.
On the other hand, a good, staple form of government with good men at the head—men who are competent to handle the affairs of a city such as Janesville—will give confidence to manufacturers and business men to come to the city with their factories and stores and instead of their being vacant buildings we will have to build more to accommodate them.
Another objection raised is that the law is not carefully drawn up and that Janesville should wait until it is re-drawn, so as to speak. Who says the law is not drawn up properly? Not the men who draw it—men who are lawyers of state-wide reputation—men like John M. Olin of Madison, and others that can be named by the score. Is it some of the men who have special interests, which have been enumerated above, that state it is not drawn up properly? This is easily answered in the affirmative.
It is safe to say that no many lawyers in the city believe the law is a good one as those who do not. It is also a safe proposition to state that those men who believe the law is all right are not attorneys for or owners of any special interests who are afraid of the change. They are men who want to see Janesville grow, want to see the city develop and not be kept down to satisfy any clique or clique of business men who are jealous of every other progressive citizen who suggests, unless they have a finger in the pie.
This talk about the recall, the referendum, the initiative, is all "popycock." Do you know what the initiative means? It means that if the anti-saloon men of the city wanted to close every saloon in the city they could draw up a petition, present it to the commission, and upon their turning it down, demand a special election to decide the matter. How would that please the liquor element or the citizens who want to see the city a wide open town? It might carry, too, consider that also.
Suppose a few citizens in some of the district wanted the sever of

AWARD PRIZES
TODAY AT SHOW
WINNERS IN SEVEN DIFFERENT CLASSES GET RIBBONS.
LOCAL BREEDERS HAPPY
Janesville Well Represented in List of Awards—Competition Very Keen—Judge Scores Closely and Fairly.
Prizes in seven classes have been awarded at the exhibition of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association after a careful examination of the score cards and the ribbons denoting the prize-winning birds were hung on the poles this morning. Competition in the classes judged thus far has been very keen, some of the birds being by less than a quarter of a pound.
The breeds already judged include the following: Barred Plymouth Rocks, Buff Plymouth Rocks, Silver Penciled Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, Buff Wyandottes, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds, and Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds. A glance at the prizes will show that Janesville fanciers have fared well in the number of prizes received, especially when the fact is taken into consideration that they have opposed to them some of the best breeders in the state.
Among the different breeds entered the Barred Plymouth Rocks exceed all the others in point of numbers. Single Comb Black Orpingtons are a close second, while Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds, Buff and White Wyandottes and White Plymouth Rocks divide third honors for number of birds entered.
Exhibitors have nothing but praise for the manner in which the judges, D. T. Heinich, has fulfilled his duties. Mr. Heinich, who has worked from one contest to the other and in all the big shows, has the reputation of being an "honest" judge, the highest praise that a chicken fancier can give. In judging the birds at the present show, he has shown absolute impartiality, scoring the entries rigidly on their merits. In fact, many exhibitors, although they took no prizes, have asserted that their entrance fee was well spent in having their fowls scored by an expert and in this way discovering the exact status of their entries.
It has already been stated that there are exactly one hundred exhibitors, but a count of the entries shows that there are close to 1,000 birds entered, which taxes the capacity of the coops to the utmost. The officials have been disappointed in but one case and that was in regard to the non-arrival of Bart Williams' entries from Ashland, Wis. His entrance fees have already been received, but his birds are stalled on the railroad somewhere between here and Ashland. His exhibit, which consists of ten fowls, Golden Bearded and White Bearded Polish, is among the best in the country and has taken first prizes at shows in Boston, Chicago and St. Louis. Had his come arrived they would have been a notable addition to the show.
The list of prizes that have been awarded is as follows:

CALENDAR SEEKERS
PESTER MERCHANTS
Nowadays the Year's Register is a Costly Work of Art and Not Given Away Indiscriminately.
Among other childish fads, such as collecting stamps and cigar bands, the yearly custom of visiting every place of business in search of calendars, a custom religiously observed by many little ones during the holidays, occupies a prominent place. Fifty or a hundred times a day during the past week the business men of Janesville have been subjected to the question, "Got any calendars?"
These calls for calendars, however, are less frequent than they were a few years ago, before the business men, involving in expensive works of art of this nature, learned not to distribute them at random in this fashion, but to carefully select a list of customers or possible ones, and mail, or hand them the calendar bearing his business card.
Only almanacs are given away to promiscuous callers, and even these are not passed out with quite the free hand that formerly prevailed. It is different nowadays with calendars. A few years ago those were usually cheap affairs, with perhaps a pretty picture or a dash of gilt. Now, however, calendars are real works of art, and some that are being distributed in Janesville cost the business houses putting them out many cents each. There are samples shown by jobbing houses for which the business men desiring to present the handsome design to his favored customers must pay $2.50 each. No local concern is indulging in such.
FULTON RESIDENT
HAS PASSED AWAY
Mrs. E. N. Jessup Died at Her Home Last Night at Five O'Clock After a Year's Illness.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fulton, Wis., Jan. 6.—After being confined to her home in the town of Fulton for the past year with consumption, Mrs. Edward N. Jessup, aged sixty years, whose maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Chapin, gave up the unequal struggle last night at five o'clock.
Mrs. Jessup was born at Seeding Hills, Conn., April 2, 1849, and came to Wisconsin with her parents, Curtis and Elizabeth Chapin, in 1852. Since that time she has resided continuously in Fulton, where her distinctly womanly qualities have won for her a host of friends who have extended their heartiest sympathy to the family in their loss.
Mrs. Jessup is survived by her husband, Edward N. Jessup of Fulton; three daughters, Mrs. Grace Fossenden and Mrs. Fannie Fossenden, both of Fulton; Mrs. Belle Blanchard of Milton, Wis.; and one son, Curtis Jessup of Fulton. The funeral will be held from the home on Saturday at one o'clock and interment will be in Fulton cemetery.

TO SEE JOHN B. MOODY
Who Was Working in Tobacco Near Janesville Last June—Communication from Denver, Colo.
Chief of Police Appleby has received from Mrs. A. G. Anderson, 1812 South Lincoln street, Denver, Colo., a communication asking that an inquiry be made regarding the present whereabouts of John B. Moody, who is known to have been working in the tobacco fields hereabouts as late as last June and to have received his mail in Janesville. It appears that Moody's mother, who is 87 years of age, has been expecting to hear from him for many months and is almost worn out with anxiety. It is her one hope to see him before she dies.

SPLENDID LECTURE
ON OPERA "PARSIFAL"
Miss Anne Shaw Faulkner, Assisted by Max Oberdorfer, to Lecture Before Apollo Club.
"Parsifal," as taken from the opera of that name, is to be the subject of the lecture to be given at Library Hall next Monday evening under the auspices of the Apollo Club. This entertainment as given by Miss Faulkner is said to be one of the best of the series presented by the club this season. It is splendidly illustrated with beautifully colored stereoscopic views, and Miss Faulkner's talk will be accompanied by piano music by Mr. Max Oberdorfer of Chicago. This story of the search of Parsifal for the Holy Grail is a most interesting and beautiful one and Miss Faulkner's comments upon it are true. Mr. Oberdorfer is a talented musician, whose playing is very pleasing.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Catarrh is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Some Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with waste matter and causes accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

We have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quickly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing, regenerative influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, grip, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects, and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience. Rexall Orderlies overcome the drug habit and safely remedy constipation and associated ailments, whether acute or chronic, except in surgical cases. They are especially good for children, weak persons or the aged. Price, 36 tablets 25 cents, 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember—3 can obtain Rexall Remedies in Jansville only at our store, The Best Store, The Smith Drug Co.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WONDER if many people realize what an immense amount of fun one can get out of life by finding out what other people's lives are like.

It seems to me that like associates with like too much.

We are apt to weaken ourselves by being too constantly with our own kind, and never making the effort to hold converse with the other kinds.

The bootblack, the shop girl, the stenographer, the businesswoman, the waitress, the college student all have different angles on life, and if all of them would try to get to each other's angles occasionally they would all be much broader minded and have much more to think about.

I don't mean by that that anyone can include in his circle of friends every kind and condition of men. What I am trying to say is simply that you can get a great deal of fun out of life, and incidentally broaden your understanding very much by trying to find out what the lives of the hundreds of people whom you serve and who serve you each day are like.

Did you ever say anything much beyond "Good morning," or "A dark polish, please," or "Looks like rain" to your bootblack while he was polishing your shoes?

Probably not, if you are an average man.

Well, some time try asking him how he happened to go into business, and how long he has to work, and how well it pays, and what he wants to be when he gets through being a bootblack, and see if he doesn't give you something interesting to think about.

Did you ever talk to a telephone girl about life at a switchboard?

I did the other day and I found out a lot of things that I don't believe many people know, and that I think are worth knowing.

For instance, when you ask your operator a perfectly simple question that you are sure she could answer if she wanted to, and instead of answering it she insists on saying, "I'll give you information," wouldn't it cool your wrath some to know that she does that, not because she wants to be disagreeable, but because she is not allowed to say anything except a few formulas?

On all the big exchanges, this girl told me, the operators are absolutely forbidden to say anything except a few prescribed formulas, such as "What number are you calling?" "I'll give you information," "The line is busy," "Shall I call you?" and two or three others.

The slightest infraction of this rule—even answering "Good morning" to a pleasant greeting, for instance—is punished by fine or suspension, isn't that rather interesting?

While you waited for your change, did you ever talk to the shop girl about people as they look behind a counter?

Did you ever ask some rich man how life looks from his angle?

Did you ever get one of the waitresses at your favorite restaurant to tell you some of the funny and interesting experiences that come her way?

No, they won't think you a Paul Pry at all if you go about it rightly.

Don't you like to talk about your own peculiar experiences, your own view of life, your angle on the world?

Well, so will they if you ask them in the right way.

THE FATE THAT PURSUES

By MARY RUSSELL.

Fathers have gone out of fashion. One has but to look in any current magazine to find that out. The lecture bureau circulars read like a report of a Mothers' congress and the newspapers follow the general trend of thought by engaging special writers to tell the needs of the hour.

And in their quest for the new, they have found a new mother. The mother of the future is to be a woman, it is said, who will turn out a hybrid creature, neither fish, fowl, nor fowl. The mother of the future is to be a woman, it is said, who will turn out a hybrid creature, neither fish, fowl, nor fowl. The mother of the future is to be a woman, it is said, who will turn out a hybrid creature, neither fish, fowl, nor fowl.

Mary Russell.

tempted to follow all the advice hurled at her in great chunks would be so busy she would have no time for the simple and best recipe of all—just wise loving.

Loving does not mean being a slave. It is not a servile bending to the will of a small autocrat. It is the power to have an equal voice, and knowing all things, the being able to pity and pardon all things.

It is strange that the very fact that one is a mother does not bring with it wisdom enough to do all things well. Surely the lines of the great, intense have gone astray somewhere. It is for us to find the line of demarcation and use the power within us to bring back the original order of things. The question is, where shall we begin?

We might make an effort by trying to sublimate the father into the place which should be his. Instead of telling the three mothers that they must be ready to make the home bright and pleasant for the man when he comes home from work, let us try telling the man that he must come home prepared to help the wife bear the burden of making the home pleasant for the children. Who is it that will turn the baby on its back and comforting the sorrow of the next youngest who has had a fall will still say, "Sh-h-h-h! Don't disturb father. He has worked all day for us and we must let him rest." And father takes the banquet as his just dues and never strangles up his but? and

Small Boys' Coat

For the little boys from 4 to 6 the smartest thing this winter seems to be the fur-trimmed coats. These are either made of kersey or broadcloth in many different colors, the most popular being blues and browns. The particular example here described and pictured was of heavy brown kersey cut on the lines of the box coat. Double-breasted, it was closed with three brown silk frogs in self-tone and had a high turnover collar of brown squirrel fur, which also was used for cuffs. With this was worn a brown beaver hat turned up jauntily on one side and brown leggings.

Heart-to-Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

Oscar Hammerstein, New York.

I have quarreled with Alphonse, the cat is dead, and the stove has gone out.

SUZANNE DUMESNIL.

Behind the cable dispatch printed above is a common story of human life, pathetic and true.

Every year Oscar Hammerstein goes to Europe looking for song birds for the American opera.

Last spring he heard Suzanne Dumesnil, a famous French soprano, and said to her, "I want you." In addition to buying her release from the Paris manager, he offered her a big salary to come to America.

Shrugging her shoulders in a charming manner, Dumesnil said: "Leave me my dear Paris? Never! Why should I leave my Alphonse, who loves me; my cat, that I adore, and my good, warm little stove?"

"Why, indeed?"

You see, there are other things in life besides big American dollars, and Dumesnil knew that very well.

And yet—

In October, six months later, Suzanne Dumesnil, soprano, was singing audiences in Hammerstein's opera house in New York. And the discriminating could detect in her wonderful voice an undertone of sadness.

Alphonse had proved false, the cat was dead, and the fire had gone out in the little stove.

What was it somebody said when he heard Jenny Lind the first time? "Break her heart and she will sing divinely." And somebody did break the heart of the songstress.

It is the way of the world—the way of disillusionment.

So long as Alphonse is true and the cat purrs contentedly on the hearth and the fire burns bright, so long does life look like a glittering pageant.

But—

There comes a day when the fire is but ashes and there is no lover to meet you and kitty is dead. It is then that the mirage rises. The rivers of happiness lose their channels in the sands of life's desert places.

Well, well!

It may be that some sweet day Jules will fill the heart that Alphonse left empty and another kitty will sing and the beautiful fire will dance up again in the little stove.

Cheer up, ye Suzanne!

A Hope.

COMMUNICATION

Mr. Editor:

While we are considering this new form of government I would like to say a few words more on the matter of the recall that I previously expressed myself on. It takes one-fourth the names of voters to bring about a recall election and then the party in office has the opportunity of being re-elected by a general vote. No small group can recall anyone. All voters take a hand in it. If it is true that the voters of Jansville can be relied on to put in a good man, it is equally true that a good man cannot be recalled. If it is true that the worst element can recall a good man from his office and put in one of their own it is equally true that they can put in their own man to begin with. The recall serves as a string to be pulled if a man does not do right; if he does right he will never know it is tied to him. As for the legislature making such an amendment if found necessary, we know how slow it is to get good measures through sometimes and it only meets once in two years. How much harm might the wrong man do in office before the power of recall be given? In the case of the western city I cited, the mayor was put out in less than two months. Had they waited for the legislature to give power to recall he would have served his term out and the devilry gone on, money squandered, etc. The recall is an element of strength, serving as a check. If we change our form of government for our city let us go at it thoughtfully and carefully. Better keep what we have than adopt something that is weak. Let us have some of these amendments first and then adopt it.

"Promises are like popples spread; we pluck the flower, the bloom has fled."

This paper has done much for the city and will do much more, but I feel sure this recall feature is too important to pass over. We have many good citizens who might serve us, and are apt to serve us right, but let us be sure they must.

A PROGRESSIVE CITIZEN.

This argument begs the question. A good man is more likely to be recalled than a man of negative character who would be content to let things go by default, rather than to adopt a progressive policy. Had the recall been in force at the last election, the mayor elected by a small majority would have been recalled by the element opposed to him, in less than a month, and he is not only a good man but one of the best of the city ever had. Elect good men and stand by them. The recall is a menace, and the lawmakers were wise in leaving it out. EDITOR.

The Recall Idea.

In a recent issue of your paper a discussion by Atty. Hemingway of the commission form of government embodied answers to the various objections to the plan. Among these was an argument against the necessity of the recall. An attempt was made to belittle the effects of this provision which is omitted in the Wisconsin law, by the absurd declaration that it will do no good to recall officers who have mismanaged the funds of the city because the damage has already been done. There would be as much reason in contending that the punishment of a bank cashier for absconding with the funds of the bank would do no good because the damage had already been done and consequently ten years in the federal prison would be a useless expense. Or it would be of little use to impose a sentence for manslaughter because the victim would remain dead. The wonder is that an attorney does not conceive that the chief purpose of all the sentences of fines and imprisonment and of the whole criminal code is their admitted effect of restricting a complete inclusion of similar crimes by men who might otherwise be tempted.

The theory was also advanced that the recall might be perniciously used by enemies of a trustworthy man to oust him from office merely for revenge. The experience of western cities which have this provision does not bear out that statement. The truth is that the recall has never been used except in one or two extreme cases, but the fact that it might be used has had city officials to their minds daily. The question of the measure is not that special interests would use the recall to remove an unfriendly official. Would not such a course of events be much less likely to transpire than the opposite contingency that, without the recall, an official might be easily won over by the interests because he would have nothing to fear until the end of his six year term.

It was further advocated in the article that "it is more important to prevent the stand than to recall the man." There would be no need for the recall or for any statutory penalties if such an ideal state of affairs existed, but until human nature attains perfection such a plan is as visionary as the sentiment of the young woman orator who would prevent any further graft and corruption in office by the method of interesting people in nature, poetry, and art. As the dream of Utopia is far from realization, laws must continue to regulate human conduct.

While not expressing the opinion that the present system of government is superior to the commission form, the writer believes that the wisest course, if possible, is government by commission in accordance with the Des Moines plan, which includes the recall. Des Moines has an excellent city government and has been held up as an example in every campaign for the new plan.

THREE DOUBTFUL MEASURES

The "Initiative, recall and referendum" are three reform measures exploited in a few of the western states and considered sacred by men who pose as leaders in the great moral up-lift movement which they are attempting to engineer.

The three measures, smacks of suspicion and lack of confidence in the men elected to office, and are a hindrance rather than a help to good government.

The initiative confers upon the people the power to instruct a governing body, by petition, on any measure which they may favor.

If the residents of any part of the city wanted a bridge across the river at any particular point and could secure a sufficient number of signatures they could petition the council or commission, and thus initiate legislation.

The same authority would be vested in the people who think that the city should be under prohibition rule. They could secure a petition demanding that no license be granted.

In either case if the council or commission refused to act then an election must be held to submit the question to the people and the result would be a useless expense, simply confirming the judgment of the governing body in refusing to take action.

The recall has been discussed so much that there is but little new to be said on the subject. The Gazette has not changed its opinion concerning this feature and it is plain to be seen that the men opposing the law are simply using the recall as a pretext. They are satisfied with the present form of government, and are doing what they can to retain it.

If the commission plan of government carries next Tuesday, as it should, there will be half a dozen or more candidates for mayor next spring, and it is safe to say that there will be no dearth of good men. At the election the two names receiving the highest number of votes at the primaries will appear on the ticket.

If one of these names happens to represent a bad man—which is not likely—and the other a good man, the people can be trusted to elect the best of the two. The same rule applies to the commissioners, where the final choice will be the best two in four. Elected good men and stand by them and good government will result.

The referendum, included in the law, is all the safeguard required. This prevents the commission from going astray, and gives the people a chance to control action as far as is necessary.

The law is a good law, and it does not develop after being tested they can be remedied. A man of straw is never dangerous, and it never pays to be frightened at this kind of an up-partition. A vote for the commission means better government and a whole-some administration.

DIRECTORS MUST DIRECT

Without attempting for one moment to condemn dishonest finance, it may be said that Charles W. Morse goes to jail with a good deal of sympathy from quarters where his offense is yet severely reprehended, says the Wall Street Journal. His contention that a loss of $7,000,000, in effect, together with a year's imprisonment, have already made up a tolerably sovere punishment, is not without merit. There is a good deal of moral difference between the exploitation of the resources of a number of banks partly for the gain of those banks, even if the gain of the individual came first, and flat-out embezzlement. Still the law must be obeyed, and the punishment is a good guarantee for the legitimate conduct of banking in future.

It is to be regretted that public opinion has not so far taken cognizance of Morse and others like him possible. Had these directors done their duty the financial operations undertaken by Morse would have been impossible because his insistence upon such a policy would have been met by the resignations of his board. Acquiescence in his acts involves a serious moral responsibility at least, and the result of this acquiescence should be a lesson to every board of directors in the country.

Something more than a quarter of a century ago the City of Glasgow bank, an institution with an unlimited liability, failed on account of the dishonesty of its managers and brought a large number of small stockholders in the south of Scotland to destitution. The chairman of the bank and the two officers principally responsible received long terms of penal servitude; while the entire board of rubber-stamp directors who merely met to collect their fees, went to jail also. These directors received the relative, severe sentences of from one to two years' imprisonment at hard labor. They were men of high social standing, but the judge pointed out that this only made their offence worse.

It was shown in these columns that had the late H. O. Havemeyer protected his company by proper publicity, and seen that his directors had the fullest opportunity for the discharge of their duty, there would have been no sugar scandal and no stain on the Havemeyer name. Let us by all means send dishonest bank presidents to jail, but let us devote all our energies also to building up a public opinion which will visit with the severest censure the conduct of the complacent director who makes such offences possible.

The attack on Mr. Homingway in the morning paper is not an argument, but simply a flood of billingsgate, which no self-respecting paper would either publish or endorse. Screens of this character are not journalism and every intelligent publisher so understands it. Mr. Homingway is out of the city, but he is not injured, and it is safe to say that he will not be annoyed.

The little band of western insurgents now in Washington have organized a press bureau, and will be satisfied with nothing less than a new party with honors for leadership divided between Governor Cummins of Iowa and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. They will discover that a good deal of insubordination will be required to secure much of a following.

With three feet of snow on a level and from 10 to 15 feet in the cuts, the railroads need more than legislation to keep the wheels in motion. Congress can afford to go slow for a few days, until the blockade is raised.

House Rent Is Paid for Month of January and Husband Left $8 in Money in His Clothes.

It was ascertained today that the 32 caliber Iver-Johnson revolver with which John Schindler ended his life on Monday, was stolen from W. T. Sherer. The sausage-making machines and scales have not been identified and will probably be sold and the proceeds turned over to the widow who is likely to be in dire want before many weeks have elapsed. At the police station this morning she stated that her husband had paid the rent for the month of January and had left about eight dollars in money. There is also an insurance policy on which he had paid out five dollars. It is hardly likely that anything can be recovered on that. Mrs. Schindler does not desire to keep the land and meat into which George Yah's hog (or hogs) were converted and Mr. Yah refuses to accept it. If Mrs. Schindler can secure employment in one of the meat warehouses and the neighbors will look after her little child it may be possible for her to make ends meet and take care of her family. She appears to be a worthy little woman and has enlisted the sympathy of all with whom she has come in contact.

RAILROADS WATCH*COMPACT CLOSELY

City of Superior Interested in Outcome of the Present

Trouble.

[Special to the Gazette.]

Superior, Wis., Jan. 6.—The railroads interested in the complaint made by the city of Superior against the switching charges made within this city and between here and the lath, are not waiting for the auto-rate commission to come and hear what the city has to complain about.

The matter has been pending for some time the city being unable to get the commission to come to this city until this month and it being preferred to have the evidence taken here rather than at Madison. A short time ago, however, the commission set Jan. 5

as the date when it would come here and go into the case. This was followed at once by a communication from the railroads and they have sent representatives of traffic departments here to confer and see whether they cannot get the city to agree and with the rate commission not to come. A flat charge of $6 a car from here to Duluth is demanded and a flat rate of $3 within the city. Delivering and receiving lines are asked to absorb switching charges for industries located on the tracks of the terminal railroad.

If the city wins on these points a material advance will have been made in the campaign for equalization of railroad rates which at the present time are claimed to handicap this point seriously as compared with the situation in the Twin Cities. Lack of satisfactory switching and through rates is alleged to be the method through which the roads are holding back the industrial development of the head of the lakes.

Congressman Lammot, before leaving for Washington, gave out another interview in which he answers a circular letter being sent out over the district by the Merchant Marine

League and which charges Lammot with deliberately falsifying in his statements made concerning the ship subsidy proposition. He reiterates his former charge that the subsidy would enrich private corporations or individuals at the public expense and declares that he will not recede from his position of refusing to vote for it.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—Eleven of the twelve persons who ate dinner at the New Year's family reunion at the house of Mrs. Dionisia Garcia Deval-are dead from ptomaine poisoning.

Among the dead are two mothers, who went to the little cottage festival with babies in their arms and miles of children clinging to their skirts. Only the babies, too small to eat solid food, escaped the poison.

The calamity, which almost completely wiped out two families, was the result of the opening of a quart jar of pears which Mrs. Devaldez had preserved last August. Each person present, with the exception of the two babies, ate a few mouthfuls and have paid the penalty with their lives.

First, the disorderly interruptions to which many Conservative meetings

tically impossible for any Unionist peer to secure a fair hearing; and, second,

the realization by the peers them-means of meeting the storm of protest the peers' action in connection with the budget aroused in the country.

GRAHAM'S PARTNER IN CLUTCHES OF LAW

Klimis, Arrested in Milwaukee for Making "Fake Butter," Bound Over to Federal Jury.

Klimis, the partner of A. E. Graham in the oleomargarine case, was yesterday bound over to the federal grand jury by Court Commissioner John P. Harper in Milwaukee, following the taking of the testimony of Mrs. Emma Blume, in whose home he made the "moonshine butter." Klimis' bail was fixed at $1,000, and he, being unable to pay, will be put in the Milwaukee county jail, to remain there until the federal grand jury convenes, several weeks hence.

This is the second time Klimis has been bound over within the last six weeks. On the first occasion he also was put under $1,000 bond, which he furnished, after languishing in jail several days. Just as soon as he put up the bond he was re-arrested on the second charge.

Mrs. Blume testified that Klimis rented a room and a portion of the basement of her home last fall. She said he had a roommate named a man who went under the name of Fitzhenry. When she was shown a photograph of A. E. Graham, indicted by the federal grand jury at Madison, recently, for also frauds who identified the photo as being a likeness of the man Fitzhenry.

Found the Stuff.
Klimis told her, she said, that he wanted the basement because he was going to store away some eggs. After he was arrested, she said, she made an investigation of the basement and found there ten to fifteen pounds of what was labeled "Jersey Lily butter," which the federal authorities say was tested and found to be nothing more than colored oleomargarine. She said she also found 200 "Jersey Lily butter" wrappers, which, she said, she threw in the furnace.

Mrs. Blume said she destroyed about everything belonging to Klimis that she found in the basement. She said she did that because someone came to her one day and advised her to do so. Whoever it was, she said, he purported to be a friend and confidant for Klimis. Among the things she found were a two-gallon can of butter coloring, which she said she emptied into a sink, then flattened out the can and threw it into an ash barrel.

Coloring Matter.
United States Marshal Harry Wolf found this can, which still contained a small portion of coloring, and it was one of the exhibits at the hearing. Mrs. Blume said she also found a butter-stamping device, and burned it. Also, she said, the cellar contained a number of empty wooden buckets, which she broke up for kindling wood. These were in the cellar where Marshal Wolf and his deputies raided the place. Some of the buckets were restored and bore the labels of Maxley Bros., Chicago. They were stamped and labeled in accordance with the federal law. The stamps bore the dates of Nov. 1 and 2, the dates on which, according to testimony of Maxley Bros., Klimis purchased oleo from the firm.

Marshal Wolf testified that he found two revolvers in Klimis' room, one in a holster.

The charge against Klimis is failure to stamp colored oleo, failure to pay the federal tax on it and otherwise manufacturing it contrary to the federal statutes.

BELOIT SUFFERED FROM BLIZZARD

Trains Late—Coal Famine Was Broken—Other News.

Beloit, Wis., Jan. 6.—The storm entirely shut off railway freight business during the night and forenoon yesterday and the companies did not do much for the balance of the day. There were no mail trains until late. The telegraph has had an immediate effect on the coal business and several dealers refuse to take any more orders for quick delivery. There has been no such interruption to traffic in several years. The coal supply is dangerously low and those having contracts to keep the schools and public buildings going are being pressed.

The postoffice has been notified the farmers who are served from this office that they must break the roads and shovel snow away from the boxes to insure delivery. Many farmers are entirely indifferent to the road conditions and the department cannot give proper service unless the roads are fixed.

Mrs. Catherine Hughes, residing on Church street, was struck by the four o'clock north bound interurban car yesterday afternoon and sustained slight injuries. She was brought to the Beloit hospital suffering from a shock and the railway physicians attended her. Her bruises were the most severe of her injuries. She was standing too close to the car as she was waiting for the car in south Beloit.

College reopened today.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Green's Christmas: Friday of this week is Christmas Day for Greeks all over the world and will be kept by the Greeks of this city as well as elsewhere. The difference between our calendar and that used by the Greeks, of thirteen days, is the cause of the difference in dates of the holidays.

Marriage License: Marriage licenses were granted yesterday to Walter J. Perkins and Angeline H. Crane of Beloit; and to Charles Kotho of the town of Plymouth and Minnie J. Anderson of this city.

Taken to Asylum: John Henderson, who was adjudged insane, was taken to the asylum at Mendota yesterday.

Wanderer Has Returned: Emory Parks, whose mysterious disappearance on Tuesday caused his wife some little anxiety, blew into port yesterday afternoon and all is serene once more in the Parks home. So far as can be learned, Chris Bergstrom's present whereabouts have not yet been ascertained.

UNTANGLING THE TRAIN SCHEDULES

Passenger Service Was Somewhat Better Today—Westerners 29 Hours Late—A Milton Junction Episode.

While the train service on both railroads showed considerable improvement this morning, the battle with the snow-drifts and low-temperature is by no means ended. The paper train from Chicago, which failed to connect until afternoon, the C. & N. W. passenger due here at 11 a. m., the westerners from St. Paul, which was due at 6:10 this morning, pulled in at 11:20 and looked as if it had been on Perry's trail. The 9:10 St. Paul train for Beloit and Rockford cleared the local depot at 11:15 and the 11:15 passenger got away at 12:30.

One party of western people who arrived here late last evening and registered at the Grand hotel reported that their train was 29 hours behind time. The party included Mrs. Florence Johnson of Rapid City, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Morse of Pierre, S. D., E. Boyden of Brookings, S. D., R. E. Brown of Minnoka, Miss Vivian Partridge of Tracy, Minn., and Miss Gladys Burdett of Chicago, Ill.

Charles Brown of Chicago, and a young lady who gave her name as Miss Grace Wells of Janesville were marooned at Milton Junction for many hours last evening and finally got here in a caboose at two o'clock this morning. Mr. Brown, who is registered at the Grand hotel, says that he tried to secure a carriage at every livery stable in town but that even the offer of a large premium would not induce the drivers to get out into the chilly night. He, therefore, escorted the young lady on foot to her home on Wheeler street. Neither party had ever seen the other before but it was no time to "stand on ceremony."

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF OSHKOSH HAS PASSED AWAY

THEIR MARRIAGE A SURPRISE TO FRIENDS

As a prelude to the production of the Moulin Rouge Girls' Big Burlesque company which played at the Myers theatre last evening there was a wedding in the office of Justice L. H. Hagedorn yesterday afternoon which might properly be entitled "United for Life" or "From Single Blessedness into the Sea of Matrimony." There were two stars in this realistic production and the honors were shared between Joseph P. Mack of Boston, Mass., and Miss Mary E. Kelley of Philadelphia.

Mr. Mack and Miss Kelley were members of the company. They secured a license and special permit to wed at the courthouse yesterday afternoon and proceeded to Justice Lange's office, where they were married. The couple kept their intentions a secret to the other members of the company until after the ceremony and the announcement was made just before the evening production of the show.

MERCURY WAS DOWN TO TWENTY BELOW

Last Night—Was the Coldest and This Forenoon the Chillest Morning of Season.

Thermometers at the intersection of Main and Milwaukee streets, which location is generally conceded to be the heart of the city, registered 9 degrees below zero at nine this morning. The mercury dropped much lower in various quarters during what was undoubtedly the coldest night of the present winter. Observers at the Janesville Electric Co. plant report a registration of 26 below zero. It was 25 and 20 below at the Haskins and Hart homes on the river road, respectively. Likewise Alderman Charles H. Evans, John Hennings, watchman at the Lewis Knitting Co. plant, noted a 14-below marking and the quicksilver shrank to the same point on Milwaukee hill. Other thermometer about the city showed only slight variations due to sheltered conditions of the instrument.

MRS. IDA KINNEY WAS ACQUITTED

By Judge Filled on Charge of Assault and Battery Preferred by Mrs. Zastoupil.

At the conclusion of the testimony in the assault and battery action brought against Mrs. Ida Kinney in municipal court yesterday Judge Filled found that the claim set up by the prosecution that the defendant struck Mrs. Zastoupil on the hand with a hammer had not been established beyond a reasonable doubt and dismissed the case. The evidence introduced by the witnesses for the defense was in direct contradiction to that produced by the prosecution. Mrs. Kinney admitted that she had cut some of the strands of hair with a hammer and axe and declared that she had been authorized to do so by city attorney H. L. Maxfield. The latter, when called to the stand, admitted that he had given her some such instructions. But defendant unequivocally denied that she had struck Mrs. Zastoupil with either of the implements and her story was corroborated by the members of her family.

HUDSON-FULTON PAGEANT DESCRIBED BY PROFESSOR

Mr. Vlyman of High School Faculty Delivered Illustrated Lecture to Students This Morning.

The students at the high school were given a treat this morning in the form of an illustrated lecture. During the opening exercises, Prof. Vlyman took up the time in a most interesting manner with a talk describing the Hudson-Fulton celebration held in New York last summer. His address was illustrated with many very beautiful colored stereopticon views of the celebration, and both the speech and the pictures were greatly enjoyed.

MANN BILL PASSES; VOTE 119 TO 102

MEASURE GIVING PRESIDENT SUPREME POWER IN CANAL ZONE WINS.

BALLINGER-PINCHOT WAR ON

Resolution for Investigation of Interior Department is Presented in Both House and Senate But No Action is Taken.

Washington, Jan. 6.—By a vote of 119 to 102 the house passed the Mann bill providing for the administration of the Panama canal zone and centralizing the government thereof in the president of the United States, despite desperate fighting by the Democrats.

The minority kept the house in session until six o'clock by offering amendment after amendment and demanding tollers on each vote.

Ballinger, Resolution Up.

Resolutions looking to the investigation of the general land office and the forest service, growing out of the difference between Secretary Ballinger and Forester Pinchot, were introduced in both houses of congress, and while neither was noted upon, it is understood they will be adopted by both houses within the next few days and that the inquiry will begin soon.

It was agreed by all persons who have given close attention to the Ballinger-Pinchot squabble that the investigation should be open to the public, and this is ordered by the resolution.

In preventing the resolution in the senate, Mr. Jones said, in part: "It is a commentary on the state of public opinion that the moment a man accepts a public office he becomes a second-hand in the eyes of many of our people and his previous life of honesty and rectitude is no warrant of official integrity," he said.

Many Accusations in Press.

"The press and magazines of the country for several months have been filled with charges against the present secretary of the interior and his conduct of the office he holds. These charges range from petty insinuations to direct charges of malfeasance and misfeasance in office, which, if true, show that he has discharged his trust most unworthily.

Senator Jones then gave a synopsis of some of the most important recommendations by Mr. Ballinger, and said:

"Conscious of the purity of his motives and the rectitude of his intentions, the secretary of the interior welcomes this investigation. I have presented the resolution calling for this investigation not in his behalf or in antagonism of any other official of the government, but in the interests of good administration, and that the people may know the facts of this deplorable controversy."

BLIZZARD RESULTS IN FAMINE.

Many Sections Suffer from Lack of Fuel Owing to Storm.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Blizzard weather and inability of the railroads to move coal shipments has produced a fuel famine in states in the Mississippi valley and the northwest, and reports from the south show the storm is severe in that section.

Many manufacturing concerns in Elgin, Ill., assert they have but two days' supply of coal on hand and little prospect of getting more. The State Hospital for the Insane in that city is also short of fuel.

At Rock Island, Ill., the government warehouse was closed for lack of fuel and 2,700 men were thrown out of employment.

Scores of cities in Iowa and North and South Dakota have sent out appeals for fuel.

Wagons loaded with supplies and blankets are laboriously pushing over the Nevada desert to a point on the San Pedro & Salt Lake railroad, where a train with 150 passengers is impounded. The trainmen and passengers

The Island of Regeneration

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

Could she do it? Should she do it? At least she would not give up the idea for want of trying. She resolutely set herself to wade into the deep sea. That she waded was evidence of her indecision. Under other circumstances, or had she been clear in her mind as to her course, a quick run, a spring, a splash, and she would have been in the midst of the lagoon. She went slowly, and as the water grew deeper, she went more slowly. It was warm and pleasant in the lagoon. The slight difference of temperature between the water and the air ordinarily was only stimulating. And yet the sea had never seemed so cold to her as it was in that hour.

She was young, strong, splendidly endowed with health and bodily vigor. The mere animal clinging to life was intense in her. It does not minimize her heartbreak or her resolution to settle the question that she found it hard to go on. By and by she stopped, the waters now up to her breast. The wind blew gently toward the land, and the waves struck her softly and beat her back. She stopped dead still and thought and thought, wrestling with her problem, full of passionate disappointment, vain regret, despair, conscious that life held nothing for her, and yet clinging to it, unknowing what would be the outcome of the Titanic struggle raging in her breast between primal passions, love of life and love of man!

CHAPTER XX.

The Repentance That Came Too Late.

For the first time in his life the man of the island played the coward. He was afraid to be alone. The others, the officers of the ship, that is, not Langford—he had gone back to his own yacht, declining the captain's invitation to dinner—would have respected the islander's mood and have left him to himself, but it was evident that he craved their society. Whitaker and the old chaplain suspected how it would be with him, but they knew that sooner or later he would have to retire to rest, and sooner or later he would be alone.

And then his grief was so obvious, that in accordance with a natural and commendable tendency they strove to cheer him up. They encouraged him to ask questions. They told him many things in reply, that the woman could not have told him; that he had half dimly suspected, but had not known. They cleared up to him many things which had seemed mysterious and strange to him.

And on their part they marveled at the things he did know, at the thoroughness with which he had been taught, and at the wonderful acuteness of perception which he displayed. The woman had marveled at it, too, but she had become used to it in three years of intimacy. They knew it immediately with greater surprise.

In such engrossing conversation the long hours passed until the striking of the bell forward tolled eight and it was midnight. No one had any desire to sleep in view of the unusual and stimulating experience which both parties to the interchange of thought in the play of question and answer were enjoying. But it was the captain, hard-headed and practical, who gave the signal for retiring. The men were not accustomed to disregard even the suggestions of the autocrat of the ship.

A spare cabin in the wardroom had been arranged for the islander, and there provided with the unworldly luxury of night wear after a heavy "Good-night" from the lieutenant commander and a fervent "Good-bless you" from the old chaplain, he was left to his own devices. The strangeness of his situation, the soft bed, the snowy linen, the silk pajamas, the confining area of the cabin, the sudden touch with luxuries of civilization would in itself have kept him awake had he been as heart whole and as care free as when the woman had landed upon the island. But, indeed, the strangeness of these things aroused no emotions in his mind at all, for the moment he was alone his thoughts, which he had been fighting desperately to keep upon other things, reverted to her. What was she doing for the first time alone upon that island? What was she thinking? He realized that no more than he could she be sleeping.

These were the first moments that he could give to reflection, the first quiet hours that he could spend in his own thoughts.

These were the first moments that he could give to reflection, the first quiet hours that he could spend in his own thoughts.

considering the situation and in getting back his rudely disturbed balance. There had been method in all his training, and he had been taught the value of considering a series of events logically in all their lights and bearings. Lying in the comfortable berth he reviewed at length and deliberately the history of his life from the day that he had been born when he first went over her sleeping upon the sand until that great glad hour when the earthquake enlightening him, he tore the rocks asunder, clasped her in his arms and pressed the first kiss that he had ever given any one upon her lips.

Unflinchingly he reviewed with what calmness he could master the scenes of the morning and the day he forced himself to consider in all its lights and bearings the information that had been given to him. He tortured himself by the deliberate slow recalling of every detail, and then, quivering as if under the stimulus of some blow upon a raw wound, he reviewed his own conduct. Enlightenment came to him in that dark and silent hour. He discovered first of all that he loved her; that the check and counter-check and variation and alteration in his emotions had been swept away in a great development of a more transcending feeling. If she should ask him that question on the morrow as to whether he loved her as he had on that never-to-be-forgotten night, he would still answer no, because he loved her more.

And then he discovered that he wanted her more than he had ever desired her before; that she was more necessary to him than ever he had dreamed she would be; that there was no question of honor or duty, indeed, but of love, overwhelming, obsessing. And then he admitted that she was pure, even holiness itself; that he had behaved to her like a cur; that he had been neither grateful, nor kind, nor tender, nor loving. He began to wonder fearfully if, after having failed so egregiously and terribly, there was any possible chance that she could ever care for him again. Fate had brought her into intimate contact, he realized, with two men. One had treated her outrageously in the beginning and had nobly made amends.

Lying Upon the Sands.

He hated Langford, and yet his sense of justice forced him to admit that he had played the man at last, while he, the islander, had treated her outrageously and in the end had played the fool. Was there a chance that she would forgive him?

The man was in many respects still a child. His heart in those sad and dreary hours yearned toward her as the weaned baby turns toward its mother. And yet there was nothing weak or childish in his feeling. He recognized his own powers, his own capacities. He knew then that she had taught him more things than are learned in books. She had taught him manhood as she had tried to teach him honor and dignity, and if he had failed once, if he had derogated from her high standard, he remembered that it was through failure that men achieved. He tried to comfort himself with these thoughts, but with little success.

But by and by all these considerations faded away or merged in a great longing for her. He had never disturbed her in the still watches of the night, although he had often been tempted to do so. But now the desire to see her, to plead with her, to beg her forgiveness—not a low desire or a base one, he thanked God—was so great that he could no longer sustain it. He rose to his feet and looked out of the open port hole. The dawn was grayish the east. At first as he was in the loose shirt and trousers in which he had lain down, which were not unlike the tunic that he habitually wore, save that they were of soft, luxurious silk, he opened the door of the cabin, stepped out through the silent wardroom—he had the natural savage air of trending without a sound—ran lightly up the companion ladder and stepped upon the deck. The officer of the watch and his midshipman did not watch him. Their eyes were elsewhere. He ran swiftly across the deck and stopped at the gangway. A marine stood there and started forward as he approached.

"That's my island," said the man. "I'm going to swim to it, and I don't wish to be followed."

"It's a long swim, sir," ventured the marine, scarcely knowing what to do. He stepped fully in the gangway as if to bar the exit.

LABOR LEADERS AGREE TO ARBITRATE DEMAND

Switchmen's Demands Are to Be Submitted to Two United States Officials.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Arbitration under the Erdman law was agreed upon by the general managers' conference committee and representatives of the switchmen's union, as a means of settling the wage dispute resulting from the demands represented by the latter.

This decision was arrived at after three weeks of negotiations on wages, rules and regulations between a committee representing the switchmen and a committee of railroad officials.

A telegram was sent to Chairman Martin A. Knapp of the Interstate Commerce commission and Charles P. Noll, commissioner of labor, asking them to act as mediators.

In the event of the two government officials failing to get the two parties together on the wage demands, each side will select an arbitrator, and these two will appoint an umpire.

Both switchmen and railroad officials have agreed to accept the decision as final without appeal.

The principal points to be settled will be an advance of six cents an hour in wages, elimination of physical examinations, time and one-half for Sundays and holidays.

WHITE SLAVE LAW IS OPPOSED.

Democratic Members of House Declare It Violates "State's Rights."

Washington, Jan. 6.—Characterizing Representative Mann's "white slave" bill as "draconic and revolutionary," three Democratic members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, headed by Representative Richardson of Alabama, filed in the house the minority report on that measure, which was favorably acted upon by that committee before the holiday recess.

Their chief objection to the bill is "that congress cannot punish citizens of the states for violating a federal statute regulating morals."

Michigan Presents Beautiful Gift to Vessel Bearing That Name.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—In the presence of a distinguished gathering from Michigan a handsome silver service, the gift of that state, was presented to the battleship Michigan at the Philadelphia navy yard.

A stand of colors consisting of three beautiful silk flags, the gift of the Michigan chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, also was given the big battleship. Gov. Warlick of Michigan made the presentation. Many residents of Michigan were present at the ceremonies.

MAE WOOD MUST STAND TRIAL.

Woman is Charged with Perjury in Suit Against Former Senator.

New York, Jan. 6.—Although Thomas C. Platt probably will never be in condition to testify, Mae C. Wood, who claims that he married her, must stand trial for perjury and perjury, charges based on documents she produced and testimony she gave to support her alleged marriage. Although counsel argued in her behalf that the indictments should be quashed because of Platt's failure to appear, Judge Foster refused to dismiss them.

Fishermen Blown Out to Sea by Below Zero Blizzard.

Hullfax, N. S., Jan. 6.—A sudden blizzard that swept down from the north carried out to sea 20 fishing boats belonging to Canoe, Whitehead and Dover, and after 30-hours' search eight boats with between forty and fifty men are missing. Hope that many of these men are now alive has been almost abandoned.

KIDNEYS ACT FINE AND BACKACHE GOES AFTER TAKING A FEW DOSES

Out-of-order Kidneys are regulated and the most severe Backache misery vanishes.

Out-of-order kidneys act fine and backache or bladder misery is relieved after a few doses of Pape's Diuretic. Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness, inflamed or swollen eyelids, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms of clogged, inactive kidneys simply vanish.

Frequent painful and uncontrollable urination due to a weak or irritable bladder or urinary disorder, or foot rheumatism coming, begin taking this harmless remedy, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure, as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

This unusual preparation goes direct to the out-of-order kidneys, bladder and urinary system, cleansing, healing and strengthening these organs and glands, and completes the cure before you realize it.

A few days' treatment with Pape's Diuretic means clean, active, healthy kidneys, bladder and urinary organs—

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Dog Meat for Human Food. According to a Paris paper, the prefecture of police has received numerous applications from persons desirous of selling dog meat. The permits have not been granted, for much traffic is not considered lawful. But if the number of applications continues to increase, it is said that the police will have to obtain a definite decision on the subject. However, it is well known, as is said in continental cities, but, as the Paris authority observes, there would be an instinctive repugnance to eat the flesh of man's best friend. The flesh is eaten in China and by the Eskimos, but, like that of all carnivorous animals, it is tough.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deep-seated, and because so many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to develop, the kidneys become clogged with uric acid, and uric acid enters the blood and attacks the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, heart ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands kidney restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N

DR. F. A. COOK BROKEN DOWN

POLE CLAIMANT IS SUFFERING FROM SEVERE BRAIN AF-FECTION.

THOUGHT TO BE IN EUROPE

Oliver-In-Law Declares Discredited Explorer Completely Broken Down in Health—Wife Is at Bedside—Not True She Seeks Divorce.

New York, Jan. 6.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook has broken down completely in health and is a victim of aphasia in a bad form, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Dudley.

She also declared that the doctor's wife was at his bedside and any story to the effect that she was about to sue for a divorce was untrue.

Has Forgotten Use of Words.
She explained that the man who claimed to have found the north pole was in such a condition that he had forgotten the use of language.

It was impossible, too, for him to think on one subject more than an instant, she declared. He had reached such a condition that when sitting at a table he asked for a pinch of salt when what he really wanted was butter.

While Mrs. Dudley, who is in charge of the two Cook children at the Hamilton Institute, was telling this story, she received a cablegram from Walter Lonsdale, Dr. Cook's secretary, now in Copenhagen, asking for the doctor's address.

"Cable Fred's address at once. All important. Must see him now," read the dispatch.

Mrs. Dudley did not answer it at once, fearing this was a ruse of others to learn where the doctor is hiding.

On the other hand, Dr. Roosevelt O. Stobbins says that Dr. Cook is in Europe and that Mrs. Cook called to meet him there on a steamer that left New York December 4. The doctor is now in a sanitarium in some European city, he says, and while it is thought he will soon recover, he is now unable to attend to business at all.

WOMAN FOILS LYNCHING MOB.
Armed with Gun She Saves Man from Drunken Crowd.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 6.—Mrs. John Andell, a boarding house keeper, armed with a shotgun, held a mob of 150 drunken, infuriated ice cutters at bay while she cut the rope with which the men had hanged Samuel Roberts, a cook in the ice cutting camp, to the rafters of an ice house. The mob had already lapsed into unconsciousness when his courageous rescuer routed his would-be executioners. Special deputy sheriffs have been sworn in and are guarding the camp against a recurrence of the bloody rioting which followed the attempted murder. Posses are searching the country side for the leaders of the mob, who fled after they had been routed from the ice house by the woman.

Unrest troubles have caused dissensions in the ice camp since the first of the season.

NEAR TO A NIGHT IN JAIL
Former Secretary of Treasury Finds Difficulty in Getting Bail.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The eleventh hour appearance of a bondsman saved former United States Treasurer James N. Huston the ignominy of spending last night in the district jail. Without waiting for extradition Mr. Huston, who has been for some weeks at West Point, Va., came to Washington and gave himself up.

As soon as he had arrived at the courthouse, Mr. Huston set about securing a $5,000 bail bond. After telephoning to numerous friends of his more prosperous days, Huston finally secured James J. Fletcher on the assurance from counsel that Mrs. Huston had property sufficient to indemnify the bondsman. The surety companies to whom Huston applied for a bond were unwilling to take chances with even the comparatively small amount involved.

Deadwood, S. Keller entered the room and told Knowles that he did not propose to submit to the nover's strictures about him in Knowles' paper and proceeded to whip him, after first asking Knowles to remove his glasses. The men were surrounded by the commissioners and the state's attorney.

Livestock Breeders of Indiana.
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—The best meeting of the Indiana Livestock Breeders' association since its organization six years ago was that held here today. President W. J. Arnold of Purdue university discussed the horse industry and Prof. A. T. Wincke, also of Purdue, told about alfalfa in Indiana. In the afternoon Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith of Cambridge City talked of "Livestock and the Homestead" and D. F. Malsch of Frankfort on the utilization of the corn crop.

PRESIDENT TAFT AFTER REBELS

WITHHOLDS PATRONAGE FROM CONGRESSMEN WHO OPPOSE HIS MEASURES.

DOES NOT APPLY TO ALL

Number of So-Called "Insurgents" Declare They Heartily Agree with Chief Executive's Legislative Program—Recalcitrants Plan Meeting.

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Taft has opened a relentless war on the "insurgents" in congress and is withholding patronage from senators and representatives who are opposing administration measures.

President Taft is reported as taking the attitude that if an obligation rests upon him to give certain patronage to a representative of his party, there is a reciprocal obligation upon the representative to support the president.

Agree with President.
A number of the so-called "insurgents" were out in interviews saying that they heartily agreed with the president's legislative program, and asserting that instead of using the "whip" on them, the president should use it on those leaders who in the past had opposed the Roosevelt policies which Mr. Taft is seeking to enact into law.

On the part of the president it was said today that the withholding of patronage does not apply to all of the "insurgents," and was absolutely nothing to do with their fight against Speaker Cannon or the house rules.

Insurgents to Confer.
The insurgents are discussing the desirability of holding an early meeting and ascertaining from President Taft where they stand. The calling of the meeting is in the hands of Representative Hayes of California. There was no apparent sign of the insurgent difficulty on the senate side of the capital further than the numerous conferences which insurgent Republicans from the house side were holding with the senators from their states regarding the policy which they were to pursue in the future.

ROCK ISLAND TAKES A DROP.
Charge Weakness Due to Anti-Trust Legislation and the Like.

New York, Jan. 6.—The stock market got another jolt when Rock Island common, which last week jumped more than 20 points in the space of ten minutes, broke from 51½ to 48 on transactions of more than 250,000 shares.

The report which caused the most nervousness was that Judge William H. Moore and Daniel H. Reid had decided to break their alliance. Another story was that Mr. Reid had instructed his brokers to sell out all his speculative holdings, and had decided to sail for Europe at once.

Judge Moore denied both stories and attributed the weakness of Rock Island to rumors of anti-trust legislation, labor troubles and the like.

WERNER COMPANY TO RECEIVER
Publishing House at Akron, O., Blames Strikes and Bad Debts.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 6.—The Werner Company of Akron, O., book publishing and lithographing concern, with assets in plant and copyrights alone of close to $3,000,000, was thrown into receivership here on application of Paul E. Werner and Edward P. Werner, holders of a majority of the stock. They assert the company is not insolvent, but that it cannot meet pressing obligations due and falling due in the near future.

The move came out of a clear sky. Though the company, a New Jersey corporation, has been having labor troubles in Akron for several years, violence and long battles in the courts marking the progress of the strike at the huge plant.

DIVORCE FOR MARY MANNERING.

Many a Good Man Thinks the "Recall" is Necessary to the Commission Form of Government. It Is Not

The Recall, Properly Safeguarded, is a Good Provision, no Doubt. In Practice It Has Been Used to Embarrass and for Political Purposes.

The best men will be criticised before their policy is understood or their results apparent. Under such circumstances a recall easily obtained is pernicious.

Supposing a dishonest commission gives a valuable franchise away or makes a dishonest contract and the whole bunch are recalled—the damage is done. If I am robbed, it makes little difference whether Jones or Smith does it.

Under our law we have a more efficacious provision.

No ordinance, with one exception, can go into effect in less than ten days. If, before that time, twenty per cent of the voters protest against its passage the council must reconsider it. If the council fails to repeal it entirely, it must be submitted to a vote of the people and be approved by a majority voting upon it.

It seems to me it is more important to prevent the steal than to recall the men who did it. But for the men we have our statutory remedy for malfeasance in office. Any public officer can be removed, after a fair trial. Taking the two remedies together, they are superior to a recall provision, which in practice has not proven eminently satisfactory.
